My Background in Art

Art Mediums

These are Mediums that I work with when creating my artwork.

- Paper and ink
- Colored Pencils and Marker
- Digital Art

Working with pen and ink has always been a special passion of mine. There's something so satisfying about creating different brushstrokes, each one carrying its own energy and character. The feeling of buying a fresh sketchbook fills me with excitement, a blank canvas ready for new ideas and experiments. I love the permanence of the medium—the fact that mistakes can't be erased makes every mark intentional, even when things don't go as planned. It's a freeing way to create, where every imperfection becomes part of the artwork's story.

I love combining colored pencils and markers in my creative process. I start with markers to lay down a bold, smooth base, and then layer colored pencils over them to add texture and intricate details. Vibrant colors are my go-to, as they bring so much energy and personality to my work. This technique allows me to blend the boldness of markers with the subtlety of pencil strokes, transforming the ideas in my imagination into vivid, tangible pieces of art. It's a process that feels dynamic and deeply satisfying every time.

Creating digital art on Procreate and Adobe has become one of my favorite creative outlets. The possibilities feel truly endless in this medium, with countless tools and effects at my fingertips to bring my ideas to life. I also love how accessible it is—I can take my tablet anywhere, making it easy to create while traveling or on the go. Whether experimenting with new techniques or perfecting a piece, digital art offers a freedom and versatility that keeps me inspired. The source of supplies at Micheals.
